Your 2016 Mial Williamson and Alumni Association Scholarship Winners

by Tom Hamilton '95

Your alumni association is pleased to announce we have completed our annual process of awarding honors to two distinguished members of the current graduating class. Once again, each of our recipients has spent their years at Broughton excelling in academics, leadership and community service. Your contributions and donations to the Alumni Association allowed the scholarship committee to honor two very accomplished students this year. Both of these students entered Broughton as freshmen, and have both spent the last four years gaining new academic abilities, serving the Broughton community and demonstrating what it means to represent Broughton High School through high moral character.

The first award, the Alumni Association Scholarship, is a renewable award of $3,000 per year, and is payable over four years. The task of selecting this year's winner was no easy one as we received an incredible number of very deserving applications. Inevitably, one candidate soon rose to the top of the list. This year's scholarship winner is Ms. Kylee Vaughn. Kylee served in a number of roles at Broughton including being the business editor of the Latipac during her senior year. She also demonstrated leadership through her work with the Stop Hunger Now program, which engages the entire Broughton student body to pack meals destined to alleviate hunger in countries around the world. While most students participate just for the day, Kylee helped to lead months of planning, fundraising and soliciting donations from the Broughton community. Kylee ran for the cross country team, and in her spare time volunteered with the local office of the Salvation Army. Quite impressively, she did all of this while also earning a spot in the top 20 of the senior class. Kylee will be attending UNC-Chapel Hill this year.

In addition to the Alumni Association Scholarship award, your contributions allowed the scholarship committee to bestow the Mial Williamson Award, which places emphasis on service, leadership and athletics. This year's recipient, Austin Bell, will receive a one-time $4000 award paid throughout the freshman year. Austin served for multiple years as the captain of both the football and lacrosse teams. He leveraged his captainships to put out a call to action for many of his teammates to update the school weight room. He spearheaded an effort with his coaches to procure new equipment and improve the aesthetics in the room. Austin also encouraged teammates to join him in the Broughton Student Athlete Leadership Program. Along with his successes in the athletic arena, Austin posted final grade point average exceeding 4.5. Austin will be attending North Carolina State this year.

We wish Kylee, Austin and all of graduating seniors much success in their next adventure. Your accomplishments have once again set a high standard excellence. We are proud to welcome you as the newest members of the Broughton Alumni Association.

To our alumni, we thank you for your contributions to the association that allow us to continue with this mission. It is thanks to your financial support that these programs are allowed to continue.

Broughton Cap, William Trott, named to North Carolina Tennis Hall of Fame

Trott attended the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, helping the Tar Heels to three ACC championships or co-championships in 1966, 1967, and 1968. Trott also won the ACC Doubles Championships in 1967 and 1968. Following his playing career at UNC, Trott served as the head coach to UNC's freshman tennis team while he attended law school at the university from 1968-1971. During that time, Trott also served as a coaching assistant to UNC's varsity tennis team.

Billy Trott

Since the late 1980's and early 1990's, Trott has been a crucial member of both USTA North Carolina and NCTF. Trott has served both these organizations in multiple roles, including: Member of the Board of Directors and Informal Legal Advisor and Counselor. Trott also served as USTA North Carolina Vice President from 2012-2014, USTA North Carolina First Vice President from 2014-2016, and Trott is currently serving as the USTA North Carolina President until 2018.

"Billy Trott was an exceptional tennis player in North Carolina, but his true value has come from his selflessness and volunteerism," said Kelly Gaines, NC Tennis Foundation Executive Director. "For almost 30 years, Billy has been a dedicated member of both the USTA North Carolina and NCTF families. He has dedicated countless hours to both organizations, and his passion and love for tennis are contagious."

Elizabeth Gibson '68 Caps 33 Years of Teaching

Elizabeth Gibson '68 shrugs off her career trajectory that sped from clerkships in a federal circuit court and the U.S. Supreme Court, and on to partnership in a Washington, D.C., litigation firm, before shifting toward time as a multi-award-winning professor and nationally known expert on bankruptcy, and culminating in an appointment by the chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court as the lawyer who researches and drafts federal bankruptcy rules.

At the end of spring semester this year, Elizabeth Gibson, the Burton Craige Professor of Law at UNC School of Law, retired from teaching, capping 33 years in the classroom. She developed her specialization in bankruptcy through one of those unexpected opportunities because Carolina's law faculty needed someone with that expertise at the time, and she'd gained some experience when a co-defendant of one of her firm's clients filed for bankruptcy.

People tend to notice first her keen intelligence, said J. Rich Leonard, dean of Campbell University's law school and former judge in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in the Eastern District of North Carolina. He has known Gibson for decades. He remembered feeling smug that he had won a clerkship with Judge Frank Dupree in the U.S. District Court, Eastern District of North Carolina, but then he learned he was the judge's second choice. The post had been offered first to Gibson, who turned it down to accept the clerkship with Judge Craven.

"I knew there was this formidable person named Elizabeth Gibson out there," Leonard said. Then he found out that she was the romantic interest of a friend he'd gone through UNC undergrad and Yale Law School with, Bob Mosteller. Later, Leonard hosted their wedding party in the backyard of his home in Raleigh's Oakwood neighborhood.

Gibson grew up in Raleigh, expecting to be a teacher, though when her ninth-grade class explored careers, she chose lawyer, because other girls weren't picking it. "I wanted something different," she said.

After receiving her bachelor's degree from Duke, she spent a year at the Justice Department in Washington as a research analyst working with lawyers in the civil rights division. She liked the work and thought, "With training, I could do what they're doing." She applied to law school and discovered she enjoyed law and was good at it.

After law school, she clerked first for Judge Craven, then for Justice Byron White of the U.S. Supreme Court, his first female law clerk. "I never got over the excitement that whole year of walking into the Supreme Court to go to work," she said.

The following year, she joined a private law firm in D.C., where she was known by later associates as "Saint Elizabeth" because of the glowing comments partners made about her work. She made partner in a short time, a feat even more remarkable considering the recent birth of her first child.

Gibson has been recognized with multiple teaching awards.

Students honored her twice with the McCall Award for Teaching Excellence, and in 2012, her colleagues selected her for the Robert G. Byrd Award for Excellence and Creativity in Teaching. At the university level, she received the Mentor Award for Lifetime Achievement in 2010, and professionally, she received the Excellence in Education Award from the Endowment for Education of the National Conference of Bankruptcy Judges. Because of the respect she has earned, Gibson has served on dozens of selection committees, including the major selection committees for two chancellors and four law school deans. She has served as advisor to the Craven Moot Court Competition for nearly 30 years, which honors the memory of the distinguished judge for whom she clerked.

In 2000, President Bill Clinton nominated Gibson to the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, but he left office soon after, and the Senate adjourned without acting on the nomination. In 2008, U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice John Roberts appointed Gibson reporter for the Bankruptcy Rules Advisory Committee; she'll continue that work after she retires from teaching. In that role, she drafts the rules the committee wants to propose. She does the research and advises the committee on issues that come up.

Over a decade ago, Gibson was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. The degenerative disease has presented many challenges with diminished mobility and unavoidable fatigue; she likely would not be retiring from teaching if it weren't for its toll. The grace, dignity and humor with which she has handled her illness have been enormously inspiring to those who know her.

Class of 1951 Reunion in Review

Our numbers have dwindled a bit but we continue to uphold our reputation as the fun loving Class of '51. Twenty-five grads and a few spouses gathered on Saturday, September 10 to catch up, reminisce, tell a few lies, enjoy a good ole eastern North Carolina pig pickin' and have a great time together. Unlike some wild and crazy reunions of the past, we came early, stayed sober and left for home before we had to drive after dark.

Class of 1996 Reunion in Review

The Class of 1996 celebrated their 20th reunion throughout the weekend of April 29th. A kickoff party welcomed classmates Friday night at The Point in Five Points. Saturday classmates and families gathered for a picnic in Fletcher Park, followed by tours of the alma mater. The weekend was "capped" off with a downtown gala at Raleigh's Depot. Altogether, it was estimated half of the class was in attendance throughout the weekend. #bhs96purpleandOLD

The End of an Era for Broughton Drivers

The Kip-Dell parking lot used to be the pinnacle of coolness for Broughton drivers. Now, a high fence encloses the 60-plus spaces, ending the parking option for many waves of Broughton grads. Kip-Dell Homes, the real estate firm that has owned the lot since 1977, said it is no longer financially feasible to operate the lot.

Kip-Dell Homes originally used the lot as additional parking for the nearby Raleigh Apartments. It began when a nephew of Kip Young, the current owner, was a Broughton student and thought the lot could be used for student parking. The next year, it was a student parking lot, and that nephew received a free parking spot for the rest of his Broughton years as a thank you for such a great idea.

Recently, Kip-Dell Homes have focused on their multi-family housing properties and have sold off all of their rental lots, the last being the one at Broughton.

A Fond Farewell to Principal Mares

Longtime principal, Stephen Mares, will transfer to Athens Drive High School this school year. Principal Mares has been at the helm of Broughton since 2009 when he took over for the retiring L. Roy Teel. Mares will replace James Hedrick, who passed away in August, at Athens Drive, but his specific start date is yet to be determined. Mr. Teel will come out of retirement to be the interim principal at Broughton until a permanent replacement can be found. Mr. Mares has been a great principal for Broughton and a friend to the Alumni Association, so we thank him for his service to Broughton and wish him well in his new position.

Broughton Caps Prepare to Head to the Polls

More than 3,000 Wake County high school students have registered to vote in the last couple of weeks as part of a district-wide effort to encourage teenagers to get involved in their communities.

All 30 Wake County high schools are participating in a two-week, non-partisan registration drive targeted at 18-year-old students who can vote Nov. 8 as well as pre-registering students as young as 16 who can vote in the future. School officials say they expect as many as 5,000 voter registration forms will be collected by the time the drive ends.

"Voting is one of the most important things in our democracy," said Faith Brim, 17, a senior at Broughton High School in Raleigh who pre-registered to vote this week. "If you want your voice to be heard, then voting is important. It really is kind of one of our civic duties."

Wake is carrying out the part of its strategic plan that calls for graduating students ready for "productive citizenship." Young people have been historically underrepresented among voters.

According to U.S. Census reports, fewer than half of 18- to 24-year-olds in the country reported they were registered to vote in the 2012 presidential election. That was lower than any other demographic group.

Broughton High teacher Leah Greene has helped to lead many of her high school upperclassmen students to fill out new voter registration forms in her classes.

Laney Allen, 17, a Broughton High senior, said some young people mistakenly believe their vote won't matter.

"If they don't vote in the election, then they have no room to complain about who went into office and what happens after that," said Allen, who pre-registered this week. "If you don't put in your part and don't at least try to make a difference, then no difference is going to be made."

In the spring, Wake targeted students who would be 18 by the Nov. 8 election. But the district has expanded its focus after a federal appeals court struck down the state's Voter ID law in July, which reinstated the provision allowing pre-registration for 16- and 17-year-olds.

Since Sept. 19, Wake high schools have been reminding students daily about how they can register to vote in November or pre-register for the future.

"It takes 90 seconds," said Abby Stotsenberg, Wake's senior administrator for high school social studies and the district's voter registration coordinator. "It's not a cumbersome process. It's easy, and now they're ready to vote on Nov. 8."

Stotsenberg said schools will still collect voter registration forms after the drive ends.

More than 230 Broughton High School students have registered to vote since last week, according to Leah Greene, the school's voter registration coordinator.

Greene told the 13 students in her Advanced Placement/International Baccalaureate psychology class who filled out voter registration forms Tuesday that they should give themselves a round of applause. She said they've joined a political process where they can either vote to throw government representatives out or keep them in office.

"This is so exciting," Greene told her students. "You know why? You guys have just joined a revolution."

Capital Spotlight: The Healing Hands of '52

At the suggestion of one of our most loyal readers, we shine the Capital Spotlight on an entire graduating class in this edition, specifically the highly successful healthcare professionals the class of 1952 produced. This class may not have been as large in the number of graduates as some of the more recent classes, but they had a great impact in the healthcare field. With six doctors, five nurses, a dentist and a psychotherapist, the class of 1952 has helped heal the minds and bodies of countless individuals over the years. Highlighted below are just three of the class' distinguished graduates.

Verne S. Caviness, Jr.

Verne S. Caviness, Jr., MD, D Phil, served as Director of the Division of Child Neurology at Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) from 1982-2007. Formerly the Joseph and Rose Kennedy Professor of Child Neurology and Mental Retardation, he is now the Giovanni Armenise Distinguished Professor of Neurology at Harvard Medical School. After graduating from Broughton, he went on to receive his undergraduate degree from Duke University, a MD from Harvard Medical School and his D Phil in experimental pathology from Oxford University. During much of the time that he has directed Child Neurology at Massachusetts General, he has served as Co-Director of research programs in Developmental Neurobiology and MRI-based brain imaging in the Department of Neurology at MGH. In 2015 Massachusetts General honored Dr. Verne Strudwick Caviness by renaming the MGH Pediatric Neurology Service the VSC Pediatric Neurology Service after him.

Dr. Caviness

Silas B. Coley, Jr.

Silas B. Coley Jr., MD is a well-established physician in the Chapel Hill area specializing in psychiatry and neurology for more than 51 years. After graduating from Broughton he went on to obtain his medical degree from the University of North Carolina, and later completed his residency in the same location. Dr. Coley has gone on to an illustrious career in psychiatry and neurology winning multiple awards, including the Alpha Omega Alpha and Merck Awards.

Robert Gaddy, Jr.

Along with Drs. Coley and Caviness, Robert Gaddy, Jr., MD, left Broughton and earned his medical degree from a prestigious institution, Duke University. He later went on to complete his residency at Duke in 1965. Dr. Gaddy left Duke and joined Dr. William Procter of Raleigh and later Dr. Frank Johnston to form Boylan Internal Medicine Associates, P.A. They chose the name "Boylan" not only because their practice was located on Boylan Avenue near downtown Raleigh, but also to honor Dr. Gaddy's wife, as Boylan was her maiden name. In 1979, the practice moved to its current downtown location on Browning Place, where Dr. Gaddy still practices today.

Welcome our New Board Member: Maria Childrey

Maria Childrey is entering her eleventh year of teaching at Needham B. Broughton High School. She is a North Carolina native, and has spent most of her years in Raleigh. After graduating from Sanderson High School, she attended UNC-Chapel Hill as a member of the first class of North Carolina Teaching Fellows. She earned a BA in Secondary Math Education, and after graduation taught math for ten years at Cary High School. She left teaching for four years to stay home with her young children, tutoring during that time as well. In 2006, she joined the staff at Broughton. In addition to teaching math, she is currently serving as a Senior Class Advisor, Service Club Advisor, National Honor Society Advisor, mentor and Gradpoint Coordinator. She loves to attend extra-curricular events to support our talented BHS students! She is married to Tom, and is the busy mom of three daughters. In her spare time, she enjoys traveling, watching (and attending) ACC sports games and spending time with family and friends. Let's all welcome Maria to the Board.

Letter to Alumni

The NBHS Alumni Association appreciates all the notes and comments of appreciation we get back from you in letters, notes on your membership forms and phone calls. Our purpose is to serve the former graduates and attendees of Needham B. Broughton High School by maintaining and housing their data base, keeping them informed of reunions and status of the alumni, and honoring the school through scholarships and recognizing the accomplishments of our graduates as they travel through life after Broughton.

Many have commented that they would like to fund something of a specific nature when sending in their membership dues and additional contributions. We are almost entirely a volunteer organization and our major expenses are first, the funding of one four year scholarship of $12,000 ($3,000 per year for four years) and one single award scholarship of $4,000 every year and, second, the printing and distribution of the biannual newsletter.

Based on the current contribution level, we are not able to send a paper newsletter to every alumnus and have had to cut off the mailings to the classes after 1995's to balance our budget. These alumni represent the future success of the NBHS Alumni Association. We want to keep up with all alumni but can only do so if all classes help fund the printing and distribution costs. Therefore, we are appealing to you on two fronts:

One is to ask that all alumni maintain a membership with the NBHS Alumni Association by sending in your annual fee of $25 if at all possible.

Two is to ask that you help us reach our twenty-year goal of endowing the scholarship fund so that it is funded from earnings on the investments of the capital contributed. If you are in a position to send more than the $25 membership fee, know that those contributions go to funding the scholarships. If you are in a position to leave a legacy, please consider the NBHS Alumni Association in your plans.

You may mail your contributions to:

Broughton Alumni Association

P. O. Box 31464

Raleigh, NC 27622-1464

or go to <http://www.broughtonalumni.com/m-donations.html> to donate via PayPal.

Thank you in advance for your support.

NBHS Alumni Association Board

P. S. We will uphold our promise not to use your e-mail for other purposes and will only send one e-mail per year regarding funding the NBHS Alumni Association to the general membership.

Betsy Case Apparel Fund

The Betsy Case Apparel Fund was established in 2014 to honor the memory of Betsy Case, who passed away in 2013. Betsy graduated from Broughton in 2006, to go on and study Fashion Design at Savannah College of Art and Design. She was full of hope and amazing ideas, which were nurtured during her years in the Apparel Program at Broughton. The best part of her day was the time she spent in the clothing department.

The Fund memorializes Betsy's charitable nature and love for fashion by providing additional funding to the Apparel Program in order to spark creativity, design and entrepreneurship among students. Money raised goes to assisting students who are unable to afford all of the basic supplies, support new fashion projects and provide scholarship funding to the New York City field trip to an outstanding student with limited resources.

If you would like to donate to the fund, please contact Mary Clare Freeman via email at maryclarefreeman@gmail.com. Thank you!

Elizabeth Edwards Foundation Raises Funds for Laptops

Technology has become an increasingly critical aspect of both learning and personal success. Unfortunately, many of our students are unable to afford their own computer. Because access to this basic and important tool is so essential, upon successfully completing a full year of the program, we provide each student with his or her own laptop computer. This serves both as an incentive to continue their hard work in the program and a tool to further their academic growth. As college grows within reach, these laptops become vital for students to complete assignments, conduct independent research and develop the computer skills necessary for academic and future professional success.

We are reaching out to ask for contributions towards purchasing ten laptop computers for the program this year, one for each second year student in the program. Your donation would help to ensure that our students, who normally could not afford a laptop, are prepared to go to college with the technology necessary to be successful and lifelong learners. To donate, go to www.elizabethedwardsfoundation.org.

Secure our Funding to Secure our Future

By Randy Worth

As you are aware, your alumni association has been able to recognize two outstanding Broughton graduates who have contributed of themselves in order maintain our school as a premier public high school in North Carolina. Fortunately, the association has been able to do this since 1984, and the scholarships have increased in value despite rising costs to keep in touch with our alumni.

The board has established an investment committee and devised a twenty year plan to insure that the organization will continue to be in a position to make these financial grants and to increase them as college costs continue to rise. For several years now the board has struggled with ways to contain costs while at the same time keeping in touch with all graduates, particularly the younger ones. However this is getting more and more challenging as we have felt that as our endowment grew, it would be prudent to secure insurance coverage. On top of this (and this is not a bad problem to have), we now have to have a more detailed filing with the IRS due to our size. All of which comes at an increase in costs.

As we tracked our alumni contributions this year, we noticed that for whatever reason, they had dropped significantly from prior years.

When comparing our contributions through September of each year for the last four years, we determined that through September of 2012, the contributions were $69,547, through September of 2013, the contributions were $46,366.00, through September of 2014, the contributions were $59,709.00 and through September of 2015, the contributions were $52,488.00. Through September of 2016 the contributions were $26,804.00.

Please consider supporting our efforts to continue providing alumni funded financial support to our school.

A Piece of Broughton History Comes Home

I am returning the shot put I used to set the Eastern 4-A Conference Shot Put record on May 6, 1966 in Fayetteville, NC. I replaced it with my personal shot put back in 1966. I have enclosed the newspaper clipping from the News and Observer documenting the record. This is the same shot put that Wayne Bell set the school record of over 55 feet in 1965.

Also enclosed is a purple and gold football jersey (not my number) and a track jersey that I wore my senior year.

I was not able to attend the 50th reunion because of a previous commitment. Since I was unable to attend, I wanted to give back to Broughton. I hope this will enhance the history of the school which has so much history. I still look back on my years at Broughton fondly.

- Mike Sweat '66

'Fine Effort' Claims McLean of Cap Victory

Fayetteville – "It was a great effort. By far our best of the season. I was mighty pleased." Said Broughton High track coach Ed McLean. His Cap cinder outfit won the Eastern 4-A championship Friday with 44 1/2 points. Second place Durham had 30 and Fayetteville, defending champions, was third with 23 1/4. Enloe scored 10 points.

Broughton's Mike Sweat and Bill Hammett set new conference marks. Sweat has a 52-10 3/4 effort in the shot and Hammett ran 19.6 in the low hurdles.

Goldsboro's Rick Wilson had a 14-2 1/2 jump in the pole vault and this broke the loop as well as State mark. Fayetteville's John D'Alp set a high hurdle mark, Steve White of Wilson set a new 220 standard.

Next on the Broughton agenda will be the Sectional meet here this weekend.

Miss Penney's Rules

Spelling Rules (Sp. 1-4)

1. Drop a final silent e before a suffix beginning with a vowel; retain it before a suffix beginning with the consonant (argue + ing = arguing, sincere + ly = sincerely).
 - a. Note: If the final e is preceded by e or g and if the suffix begins with a or o, retain the final e (courageous, peaceable).
2. Place i before e unless it comes c, unless it is pronounced a as in weigh (ceiling, neighbor, niece).
3. To add s to a word ending in y preceded by a consonant, change the y to i and add es. If the y is preceded by a vowel, simply add s (try – tries, lady – ladies, boy – boys).
4. Double a final consonant before a suffix beginning with a vowel if both of the following requirements are met?
 - a. The final consonant must follow a single vowel, and
 - b. The word must consist of only one syllable, or the accent must come on the last syllable (begin – beginning, drop – dropped, benefit – benefited).

Phyllis Peacock's Enduring Literary Influence

I noted with interest the photo of Phyllis Peacock in the article "Best Buds from Broughton Boast Brotherhood." in the Spring 2016 issue of the Alumni News. I would like to add that in 1951 Mrs. Peacock started the first Creative Writing Class at Broughton High. There were seven students in this class including myself and Reynolds Price. Reynolds Price became a Rhodes Scholar attending Oxford University in England. He was a well-known, prolific writer and published short stories including A Long and Happy Life and Names and Faces of Heroes. He also wrote many novels, including one of his last novels, The Good Priest's Son. He also became Professor of Literature at Duke University. Reynolds passed away several years 2011. Certainly Mrs. Peacock started this talented person on the road to a very successful career in writing and she deserves that credit.

Anna Mae Perry Beachem (Class of 1952)

Broughton is my Special Memory

I indeed had a blessed and exciting career and the life after Broughton. I went to High Point College because I wanted to work with children. I did start working with kids, but very soon the leadership found I was very good at fund raising. I raised just over $70 million in private funds over forty years. Along the way I worked with Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Bill Demarest, and was on first name basis with former CEO's of Boeing, Kelloggs, 3M, United Airlines and Oscar Meyer.

However, what I remember most are losing two kids in New York City (for only 3 hours), getting kicked out of the White House because of my kids, and being permanently banned from the Football Hall of Fame because of my kids shoplifting. The kids at the clubs I ran were the poorest, the most deprived and the neediest.

My most vivid memories are of the fact that we found statistically that half the kids from the Ypsilanti Club would wind up in prison: the six year old whose family was living in their car that did not run; the furor when we admitted an HIV positive eight year old boy; and most of all Walter Evans, who now resides at Pelican Bay Prison, six miles north of where I live. Walter was in our leadership program in Palm Springs. Each year they would help the guests carry golf bags at the Dinah Shore and Frank Sinatra tournaments, which gave the kids the opportunity to meet many celebrities. One year, Walter assisted Charles Schultz, and after being patient as Schultz signed autographs finally said loud enough for everyone to hear, "Come on Snoopy, let's get going." The room cracked up with laughter. Four years later at the age of 17 Walter was convicted of murdering three people, and while in prison killed another inmate. He now spends 23 hours a day in solitary. Why am I sharing these stories? I overcame both poverty and the institutional unkindness of the Methodist Home, but not by myself. Many of you without knowing made me feel important and meaningful. Broughton is my special memory because it was the springboard that made me feel worthy. I owe that to my fellow alumni. When we raise our children and grandchildren, remember that when you treat someone with kindness the rewards may be greater than you could ever imagine.

James Coston (Class of 1965)

Alumni Decade Captains

Alumni Decade Captains were created to assist the class agents with their reunions. For each five-year period, one captain is designated as the liaison between the agents and the Association. Included in their duties are encouraging classes to have reunions, submitting scheduling, updates in planning and write-ups (including photos) of reunions held to the Association for inclusion in the semi-annual newsletters.

Below are the decade captains who have graciously volunteered to serve as liaisons to the Reunion Committee.

Contact your decade captain if you are unable to contact your class agent.
